

Frozen Soups

Campbell's® Restaurant Quality Frozen Condensed Soups

Get quality and convenience any way you want it. From traditional to trendy, Campbell's Foodservice offers an award-winning collection of frozen condensed soups and frozen ready-to-serve soups. They're as full of benefits as they are of flavor.

Campbell's® Restaurant Quality frozen condensed soups are simple to prepare and cost efficient. With our convenient split tray pack, which doubles as a measuring device, you can make as little as half a gallon of soup at a time to minimize waste. And because most of these soups reconstitute with water rather than milk, there's no additional food cost.

EASY TO PREPARE

Frozen Condensed Soups

- Remove plastic film cover. Place blocks of soup in suitable container.
- Add 1 quart of water for each block of soup. Use whole milk for New England and Boston Clam Chowders and Poblano Corn Chowder at a ratio of 1:1, milk to soup. One half of the tray filled to the top of the center divider is equal to 1 quart.
- Cover and cook to boiling, with occasional stirring. Use indirect heat (double boiler) for optimal quality.
- Reduce heat and simmer for 2 to 3 minutes.
- Carefully transfer to serving container.

Frozen Ready-to-Serve Soups

- Immerse the pouch in boiling water until the product reaches 180°F (about 1 hour).
- Using a ladle or insulated gloves, remove from water.
- Make a cut with a knife near the top of the pouch.
- Carefully pour the soup into a holding kettle or steam table insert.

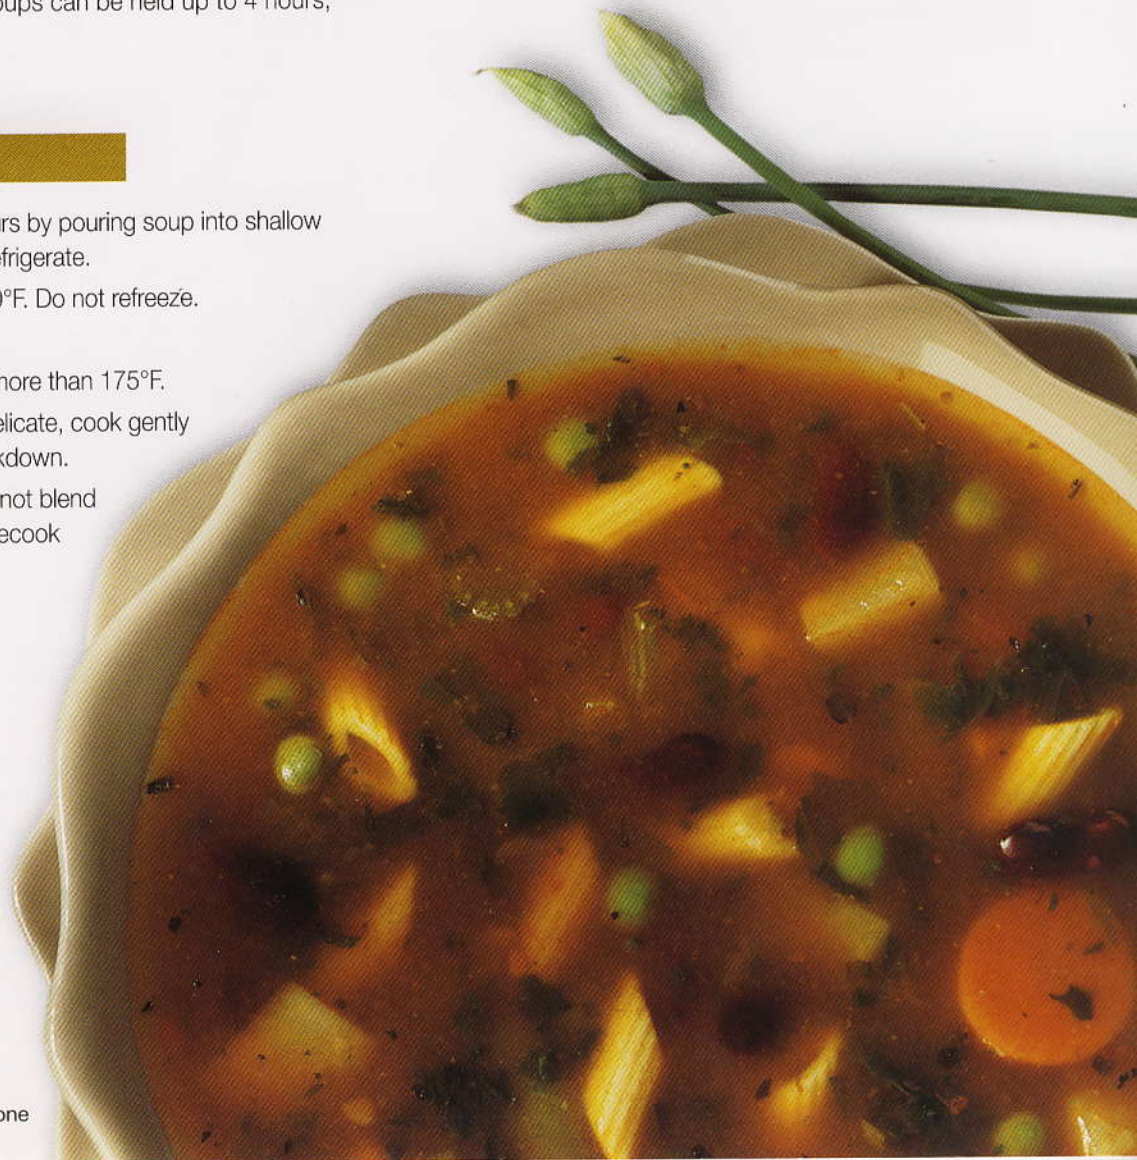

HOLDING INSTRUCTIONS

- Keep serving end of the ladle in the kettle; place lid on top.
- Hold soup between 165° and 175°F.
- Under proper conditions, cream soups can be held up to 4 hours; broth soups up to 6 hours.

LEFTOVERS

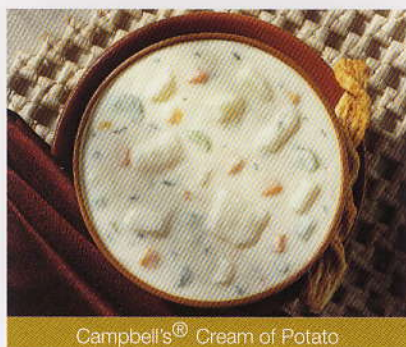

- Cool to less than 40°F within 4 hours by pouring soup into shallow pans (2 inches deep); cover, and refrigerate.
- Store covered between 34° and 40°F. Do not refreeze.
- Use within 48 hours.
- Recook to at least 165°F, but not more than 175°F.
- Because cream soups are more delicate, cook gently with indirect heat to minimize breakdown.
- Serve recooked soup first, and do not blend with freshly cooked soup. Do not recook more than once.

Campbell's® Restaurant Quality Frozen Ready-to-Serve Soups

Campbell's® frozen ready-to-serve soups are created with flavorful stocks, cream, tender meats, crisp vegetables and mouthwatering seasonings. We immediately freeze them in convenient 1-gallon pouches to ensure consistent flavor and texture. Just heat the pouch, remove it from the water and serve.

The pouch maximizes stovetop space by allowing you to heat multiple pouches and different varieties together in the same pot. You can cook and hold the soup in the pouch to avoid liquid boil-off, which improves food costs and consistency. And there's no need to add water or milk. Restaurant-quality soups couldn't be easier.

Campbell's® Cream of Potato

Brown & Wild Rice with Chicken

A hearty blend of brown and wild rice with chicken, carrots, celery and onions all in a rich cream base.
