Restaurant Owner Discovers Xpressnap Saves Cost — and Adds Revenue

Cathy Wingo recalls that Xpressnap's guaranteed 25 percent reduction in napkin usage was enough to convince her to invest in the distinctive dispensing system.

"I saw the dispensers at a foodservice show last fall, and I liked that they eliminate waste by serving up only one napkin at a time," she said.

Immediately convinced that Xpressnap was a good deal, she purchased 26 dispensers from PFG Milton's for the counter and tables at her C&J Restaurant in Roebuck, S.C.

It didn't take long for Cathy, an enterprising entrepreneur, to figure out that the dispensers could save — and make — money for her business.

Cathy says she initially considered using the AD-a-Glance message panels to promote menu specials. "Then I thought, 'Why not let other people advertise on them?'"

So, on the blank backside of the sample messages shipped with the dispensers, she wrote, "This Space for Sale." "The response was almost immediate," she notes.

Her first AD-a-Glance customer was a real estate salesperson who rented the message panels on two dispensers for $10 a month for each unit.

"I have advertisers lined up, waiting to rent panels," she says. "I had no idea it would be so popular and so easy."
